Filtration systems and parts manufacturer Donaldson Filtration Solutions has expanded its fuel filter offering through the launch of a new line of replacement fuel filters.

Donaldson technical GM Colin Farnworth tells Engineering News that the new line will provide customers with additional options to protect engine components and to extend equipment life.

The expanded range of replacement fuel filters includes a larger complement of filters to fit a wider range of the more popular fuel filtration systems fitted to vehicles in South Africa.

Farnworth adds that the fuel manager replacement filters are designed to be fitted onto new platforms and retrofitted onto existing machinery on both on- and off-road vehicles.
